Dairy science students attend the 2018 American Dairy Science Association Annual Meeting

Champaign, IL – Dairy science students from New Hampshire recently attended the 2018 Annual Meeting of the American Dairy Science Association® (ADSA®) June 24-27, 2018 in Knoxville, Tennessee. The meeting attracted more than 100 students and their advisors along with more than 1700 professionals and guests from the US, Mexico, Canada, and beyond.

During the meetings students participated in professional development, educational and networking events along with multiple competitions including dairy quiz bowl and paper and poster competitions. Students also had the opportunity to attend symposia, oral sessions and poster sessions presented by professional members of the organizations.

The students attended the meetings as members of the American Dairy Science Association Student Affiliate Division (ADSA-SAD). The ADSA-SAD is a division of the parent organization that works to develop leadership and promote scholarship among students interested in the dairy industry, and to encourage students toward careers in dairy science. There are more than 800 undergraduate student members in ADSA.

ADSA was established in 1906 as a scientific and educational association to serve the dairy and dairy-related industries. It facilitates the discovery, application and dissemination of dairy science knowledge and information.
